Technical Commentary:

The share price has exhibited muted volatility since the beginning of the year, consolidating within a narrow range. Price action is once again tested at the RM0.655 resistance level, representing its third re-test of this level in 2025. A decisive breakout above RM0.655 would signal the resumption of near-term bullish momentum, opening room for an advance towards the next resistance zone at RM0.690-0.745. Immediate support is observed at RM0.630.

Technical Commentary:

The counter experienced a notable pullback since peaking in early 2025, but has since staged a meaningful recovery, retracing most of its earlier losses from the March trough. Sustained buying interest has lifted the counter above key technical thresholds, with prices now trending above all major moving averages. A sustained breakout above RM4.02 would set the stage for an advance towards RM4.12-RM4.19, while immediate support is at RM3.92.
