Technical Commentary:

The stock formed a hammer candle near the RM2.61 support level yesterday, indicating potential buying interest and a possible reversal after a recent pullback. A close above RM2.70 would strengthen the bullish signal and suggest that a rebound is underway. A decisive breakout above this level could pave the way toward initial resistance at RM2.76, followed by next resistance at RM2.83. To manage downside risk, a stop-loss below RM2.61 support level is recommended.

Technical Commentary:

The stock is attempting a bottom-rebound formation after stabilising above the key support at RM0.40. Momentum indicators are improving, with the RSI recovering from oversold territory and the MACD nearing a bullish crossover, suggesting that selling pressure is easing. A breakout above RM0.42 would confirm a short-term reversal and could trigger a move toward the next resistance levels at RM0.46 and RM0.51. Conversely, a close below RM0.39 would invalidate the rebound setup and signal renewed weakness.
